OHIO LEADS U. S. IN HOLIDAY DEATHS

Soviet Sputniks Produce Top Story of 1957

Little Rock Crisis Listed by Editors As No. 2 News Event

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two metal moons lobbed into outer space by Russia made the biggest news of 1957.

Their breaking of the gravity barrier has been adjudged the year's outstanding event by the nation's top news editors in the Associated Press annual poll.

The Russian achievement has had broad consequences. While the United States insisted it wasn't racing satellites, the launching quickly proved a propaganda victory for Russia. It was even likened here to a second Pearl Harbor.

Soon President Eisenhower assured America it was still ahead in over-all military strength, appointed a science coordinator, and gave priority to the whole missile program. As the realization sank home that the beep-beep from space symbolized vast technical developments in Russia, there was soul searching by Americans on their educational and military setups.

WHEN SPUTNIK II stole a second march on the world, however, the Russians themselves were surprised because the Western man-on-the-street turned his attention largely to the doomed dog that traveled the silent skies to a lone-some death within the half-ton satellite.

A close second on the editors' list of biggest news events was the Little Rock story.

Although a large number of schools were desegregated in the South last fall in line with the Supreme Court decision, troubles in a few spots, and in Little Rock most of all, cornered national interest.

At Little Rock, Gov. Orval Faubus threw Arkansas national guardsmen around Central High School to "maintain order," after a federal court ordered all persons to refrain from interference with proposed integration of the school.

The guardsmen turned away nine Negroes scheduled to enter the school but were withdrawn after three weeks under court order. When the nine did enter school a

Navy Gives Up Its Hunt for Missing Fliers

HONOLULU (AP)—The Navy gave up its search Wednesday for more survivors of the "flying radar station" airplane that crashed into the Pacific Monday 25 miles north of Oahu Island.

The search was abandoned at sunset after Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard surface vessels and planes had combed the area for two nights and two days.

Officers said there was no hope of finding any others beyond the three officers and one enlisted man plucked from rough seas in darkness early Tuesday. They were found near the site of the crash.

The four-engine WV2 Navy radar plane, a radar-packed Super-Constellation used for early warning picket duty, crashed at sea while on a training flight.

Survivors said most of the crew were trapped in the $7½ million craft. Two bodies were recovered early Tuesday and the 17 other crewmen were presumed to have perished.

One of the survivors, Cmdr. Guy Howard, 41, Oakland, Calif., explained, "I really don't know yet what happened; she just stopped flying at 1,500 feet. All four engines stopped at one time." Riot occurred despite police efforts. Then federal troops were rushed

Most Christmas Celebrations End

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the world's Christians returned today to their daily routines, refreshed by the double joys of Christmas religious observances and holiday festivities.

Some people were still enjoying festivities. The day after Christmas is a holiday in Britain and in a few other nations—including non-Christian Japan—Christmas holidays merge into New Year's celebrations for many.

For Americans the holiday usually meant the traditional family day at home. But U.S. troops still stood guard at lonely outposts and in some places new refugees were added to the world's homeless.

Seven hundred Dutch refugees from Indonesia spent Christmas in transit camps at Singapore while waiting passage to the Netherlands—the home many have never seen. For the Dutch children it was a particularly dreary Christmas as a measles outbreak threatened in one camp.

At the International Geophysical Year station at the South Pole, U.S. Navy men and scientists opened their presents around a synthetic Christmas tree—their

Lower Farm Props Studied

Ike Expected to Ask Congress for Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration apparently is preparing to ask Congress to set lower minimum price support levels for all farm products now having a legal minimum of 75 per cent parity.

The new minimum would be 60 per cent of parity, which is the price goal of federal farm programs.

Products now having the 75 per cent minimum include the basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco, peanuts and dairy products.

Parity is a price standard declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to the costs of what they buy.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson already has stated a 60 per cent minimum would be sought for the basic crops. So far, he has not publicly stated what the administration's position will be regarding the other commodities. His aides merely say the matter has been put up to the White House for a decision.

BUT LEADERS of some of the big organizations say they have been informed by department officials that the administration will seek 60 per cent parity floors across the board, except in the case of those commodities which, under present law, may be supported between zero and 90 per cent.

In this latter class are oats, rye, barley, sorghum grain, soybeans and the like.

Algeria Said 'Quiet'

PARIS (AP)—Algeria today reported its quietest Christmas—five deaths—since the nationalist rebellion began there in 1954.

Santa Claus Works Wondrous Miracle for Deputy Hoover

Santa Claus operates in wondrous and strange ways.

Yesterday, he delivered to Deputy Sheriff Robert Hoover a wholly unexpected and welcome gift.

About November 23 Bob lost his prized wrist watch—a graduation gift from his mother. He had been hunting on the farm of his wife's parents near Cedar Hill. He also had stopped at the community house at Cedar Hill to pick up some loose evergreen branches for Christmas decorations.

When he reached home he discovered his watch was gone. Hoover returned to the farm and searched the fields for the watch, unsuccessfully.

He opened Christmas presents at his in-laws home last night and among the gifts was his valued watch.

puppy ate the real evergreen that had been flown in from New Zealand.

In the Holy Land about 5,000 pilgrims visited Bethlehem for a re-enactment of the story of Jesus' birth. This was perhaps 10 times the number that crossed the frontiers last year when the Suez war was still a fresh memory.

A few miles away in Gaza, the U.N. Emergency Force marked Christmas in ways that typified the varied celebrations of the world's billion-plus Christians.

Hindu soldiers from India took on extra patrol duties so their Christian comrades in the army that considers itself the world's first international peace force could feast on their native dishes and sing carols in many tongues.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld celebrated with troops from his native Sweden.

In Korea, Francis Cardinal Spellman celebrated Mass twice with American troops serving in an older U.N. army. Seventeen thousand troops also cheered performances by Bob Hope and Jayne Mansfield.

Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the National Council of Churches went by helicopter to Fire Island in Alaska's Cook Inlet and preached a Christmas service to servicemen there.

Leaders of the West-rn world marked Christmas Day with their people.

Queen Elizabeth II spoke to her subjects via radio and television from her country home in Sandringham. President Eisenhower spent the day with his family at the White House. Pope Pius XII blessed a cheering crowd of 50,000 in St. Peter's Square.

Briton Racing Overland to South Pole

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—Sir Edmund Hillary was reported racing toward the South Pole today. If he reaches the bottom of the world, he will be the first explorer to make it overland since 1912.

Hillary radioed today that he is "hell bent for the South Pole, God willing and crevasses permitting." The conqueror of Mt. Everest and his small party have about 325 miles to go.

A message received here indicated Hillary had abandoned earlier plans to link up with Dr. Vivian Fuchs at Depot 700, but is leaving supplies there for him. Fuchs is leading a British party from the South American side of the continent in the first attempt to trek across the antarctic. Fuchs and Hillary are expected to return together to Hillary's base camp near McMurdo Sound on the New Zealand side.

Fuchs is depending on the supplies to help him complete his transantarctic trek, but his party apparently has been slowed down 700 miles from the pole by crevasses and tractor trouble.

There had been speculation earlier that the two teams were engaged in a race to the South Pole, but Hillary's supporters have denied this.

Ike's Housing Aid Program Said Too Slow

Senate Group Books Probe on Release Of Appropriation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) said today the Eisenhower administration has been too slow in moving to counter the current economic slump.

Sparkman announced the Senate Housing subcommittee which he heads will start hearings soon to inquire, among other things, why the White House "waited so long" to release $177 million which Congress had voted for military housing, urban renewal and cooperative housing programs.

The White House announced Monday it was releasing this money in a move interpreted as intended to help the economy in general and the slumping housing industry in particular.

Housing construction this year has dropped to 926,000 starts. The goal for the year had been a million.

"The biggest boost the administration could give the housing industry and the economy now," Sparkman said, "would be to loosen its tight money policy."

HE SAID that if the maximum interest rate on FHA-insured mortgages was lowered to 4½ per cent, it would provide "tremendous impetus" for home construction. The maximum rate now is 5½ per cent.

Many economists view the housing industry as one which can, when it booms, help to snap the whole economy out of a slump. The housing industry also is viewed generally as a pretty good barometer as to how the rest of the economy is doing.

The Associated General Contractors of America forecast that construction outlays next year will total $68 billion, or $2.8 billion above this year's record.

The AGC, which represents 7,000 firms in the construction field, forecast a slight rise in residential construction, a boost in highway and other public works activity, and continued high volume in most private non-residential construction.

Small Business Administrator Wendell B. Barnes, in forecasting that 1958 "will be another relatively good year for business," spoke today of an anticipated pickup in housing construction and in public works spending.

Barnes said: "We are experiencing now, and will undoubtedly see in the early months of 1958, some slackening in over-all business activity. Such readjustment or corrections are something that must be expected periodically during the long-term expansion. I do not expect that this correction phase will last long."

Girl, 16, Never Home at Christmas

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Susan Stalcup is 16 years old and she can't remember spending a Christmas at home.

The last 12 years her father, Sparky Stalcup, University of Missouri basketball coach, has brought his team to the Big Eight Conference Holiday Tournament in Kansas City. Susan and her mother have accompanied him and celebrated those 12 Christmas Days in a hotel.

"I'm so used to it I don't remember anything else," Susan said last night. "It's just part of being in a coach's family."

Anti-Western Cries Heard at Cairo Parley

CAIRO (AP)—Anti-Western slogans and banners opened today an African-Asian peoples' conference of some 400 delegates from about 40 countries and colonies.

A banner reading "Down With Eisenhower Doctrine" was carried by students who cheered the delegates to the week-long meeting, billed as a followup to the meeting in 1955 at Bandung, Indonesia.

Spellman Aids Koreans

SEOUL (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman gave $15,000 to Korean charities today. The money had been collected at churches in his New York diocese and from other Roman Catholic groups.

OUT OF SADNESS, JOY—Christmas loomed tragic but is taking a kinder turn for the Butner children—sauce-eyed Louise, 4 months, and sleeping Martin, 3, being cared for by policewoman Evelyn Emru in New York City. Their mother, British war bride Mrs. Brenda Butner, 25, deserted by her husband a few days ago, and penniless, felt she could not face Christmas. She turned on the gas in her tiny apartment after putting the children outside. Neighbors discovered wailing Martin, broke in and found the mother in time to save her life.

2 Men Accused By Editor

Beating Case Slated For Hearing Jan. 3

PLYMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Two men face a hearing Jan. 3 for assault and battery in the beating of a weekly newspaper publisher in his office on Christmas Eve.

Charged in the attack on Arthur L. Paddock Jr., publisher-editor of the Plymouth Advertiser, were Milton Sexton, a foundry worker, and Dave Williams, a welder.

Police Chief Bob Meiser said Paddock was slugged for refusing to tell the two men who wrote a "letter to the editor" criticizing attempts to merge several school districts in Richland and Huron counties. The Advertiser has backed the consolidation movement.

The published letter was signed "Disgusted." Mrs. Paddock, who said her husband didn't feel up to talking on the telephone, said he withheld publication of the writer's name upon request.

She said her husband was struck during a talk with the two men when he refused to identify the writer. Paddock will require some "expensive bridge work" as a result of the altercation, she added.

Belle Noel Has Yule Baby

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Belle Noel, 33, gave birth to an eight-pound boy here Christmas Day.

The two towns are involved in the school merger proposal that has been an issue in the communities for some time. Opponents fought the merger to the Ohio Supreme Court that recently ruled against it. Efforts at consolidation have continued, however.

MEISER SAID a large crowd gathered outside the Advertiser office on the Public Square as word of the incident spread. Plymouth, a town of about 1,500 straddles the Richland-Huron County line in north central Ohio. The two men live in Shiloh, a village of about 500 some four miles from Plymouth in Richland County. Both men work in Plymouth.

Soviets Press Peace Plan, Attacking West's Proposal

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians pressed their own ideas of a peace plan today while sharply attacking the Western proposal for a foreign ministers conference to take up disarmament.

Foreign diplomatic missions in Moscow were studying a seven-point plan approved by the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last gave all foreign delegations a copy of the proposals Wednesday with the request that it be relayed to their governments and parliaments.

The plan largely paralleled letters written to all U.N. members by Soviet Premier Bulganin just before the Dec. 16-19 NATO summit conference in Paris.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda dismissed the NATO proposal for a foreign ministers conference as an attempt to ram through a disarmament agreement on Western terms. It said these terms are unacceptable to the Soviet Union "because they are in no way conducive to disarmament."

Army Reviewing All Cases Of Security Risk Discharges

NEW YORK (AP)—The Army is reviewing the cases of every soldier discharged as a security risk between 1948 and 1955, the New York Times said today.

When the earlier findings now appear too harsh, the nature of the man's discharge has been upgraded or the security label removed, according to a Washington dispatch to the paper.

The Times story also said: Changes have been made in almost half the cases reviewed so far and many former soldiers receiving undesirable discharges are not eligible.

The Army undertook the program voluntarily. The men affected generally know nothing of the review unless the service decides to improve their type of discharge.

In this event, the former soldier receives a letter from the adjutant general of the Army enclosing the improved discharge paper and asking him to throw the old one away. The letter also says the Army finance center will send him back pay due.

THE MILITARY services have four general types of discharge: honorable, general under honorable conditions, less than honorable or under "other than" honorable conditions and dishonorable.

The cases are being reconsidered in the light of less restrictive security standards laid down in two directives late in 1955.

The first, issued Oct. 17, was an order from Secretary of the Army Brucker requiring a "common sense" judgment on the significance of subversive ties.

The second, on Nov. 16, required consideration of the quality of the man's military service in deciding the type of discharge in security cases. Previously, the regulations made less than honorable discharges automatic in some cases no matter how good a man's service record was.

It is the annual meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, world's largest organization of related scientific organizations.

Thousands of scientists will report new findings and exchange ideas during the five-day conference.

Some main items on this intellectual banquet menu: Research planning for space flight, and medical problems of human pioneers in space.

New ideas on evolution. An analysis of the problems of smoking and lung cancer.

How best to educate children and stimulate interest in science.

Mysteries of the human mind, its fears and conflicts, chemistry of the brain and new drugs for mental illness.

Wiretapping and criminology. All together, the Congress will hear some 1,200 separate reports.

31 Persons Die In Buckeyedom, 268 in Nation

Highway Accidents Kill 24 in This State, 215 Across Country

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Black crepe replaced the green holly wreaths in many homes across the nation today as violent accidents took a heavy toll during the Christmas holiday.

More than 200 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle crashes, surpassing the 180 predicted by the safety experts.

The traffic death toll for the 30-hour period from 6 p. m. Tuesday to midnight Wednesday (local time) was 215 and final figures were expected to boost the total. Fires took a toll of 27, and 26 other persons lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 268.

Ohio led the entire nation in number of accidental deaths over the holiday.

Twenty-nine persons died in Ohio accidents between 6 p. m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday, an Associated Press survey showed, and 26 of these died on Christmas Day.

RAIN OVER most of the state may have caused the death toll on the highways to climb. Twenty-two died on Ohio's roads.

Four children died in a fire in Zanesville and a youth and his grandparents died in Youngstown of asphyxiation.

Among Ohio's traffic deaths, four persons were killed when the car in which they were riding collided with a Pennsylvania Railroad switch engine at a crossing in Bradford in Miami County.

Another four died in three separate accidents in Lorain, all within three hours.

One man was killed and 23 injured, one critically, when a car veered across the center line on Ohio 49 five miles north of Dayton and collided with a bus.

The National Safety Council, which estimated the 180 traffic death toll, described the holiday deaths on the highways as "tragically heavy."

An Associated Press survey made for comparative purposes on the nonholiday 30-hour period from Dec. 10 through Dec. 11 showed 84 traffic deaths, 15 in fires and 27 miscellaneous accidental deaths for an over-all total of 126.

This year's traffic toll compared to the record of 253 for a one-day Christmas holiday period, in 1946. The low mark in traffic fatalities for a one-day Christmas period since World War II was 179 in 1947.

Last year's four-day Christmas holiday period set a record in traffic deaths for any holiday period, with 706. The over-all toll of 884 during the same four days also was a record for any holiday.

"There must be a better way to celebrate Christmas on the highway than by piling up a death toll 2½ times as great as the toll for a non-holiday Wednesday at this time of the year," commented Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

"We can only hope that the shock of this needless toll will bring about sober thinking that may hold the New Year toll to a new low."

HST Says Ike Report Just 'Gobbledygook'

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman today used one of his favorite words—"gobbledygook"—to describe the Monday night television talk by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

"I'd hoped there would be a policy statement, but none was made," Truman said.

It was "just a lot of State Department gobbledygook," the former President said here while spending the Christmas holidays with his daughter, Margaret Daniel.

Montavon was working at the scales in a stockyard when a steer broke loose and crashed through a gate. The gate struck Montavon on the head. He died en route to a Columbus hospital.

How did it get there? Well, the Rev. Walter Whitaker, pastor of the Cedar Hill EUB explained it.

The Rev. Whitaker said he was at his home near the Cedar Hill Community House about the day Hoover lost his watch. Whitaker's dog came to the door and wanted into the house. Whitaker let him in, and discovered the dog was carrying a watch in his mouth.

Mr. Whitaker kept the watch for several days, hoping someone would claim it. When no one did, he took it to church last Sunday and asked if anyone had lost a watch. Hoover's mother-in-law, Mrs. Boyd Spangler, looked at the timepiece, recognized it and claimed it. She wrapped it with other presents for Hoover and his family.

Housing construction this year has dropped to 926,000 starts. The goal for the year had been a million.

"The biggest boost the administration could give the housing industry and the economy now," Sparkman said, "would be to loosen its tight money policy."

HE SAID that if the maximum interest rate on FHA-insured mortgages was lowered to 4½ per cent, it would provide "tremendous impetus" for home construction. The maximum rate now is 5½ per cent.

Many economists view the housing industry as one which can, when it booms, help to snap the whole economy out of a slump. The housing industry also is viewed generally as a pretty good barometer as to how the rest of the economy is doing.

The Associated General Contractors of America forecast that construction outlays next year will total $68 billion, or $2.8 billion above this year's record.

The AGC, which represents 7,000 firms in the construction field, forecast a slight rise in residential construction, a boost in highway and other public works activity, and continued high volume in most private non-residential construction.

Small Business Administrator Wendell B. Barnes, in forecasting that 1958 "will be another relatively good year for business," spoke today of an anticipated pickup in housing construction and in public works spending.

Barnes said: "We are experiencing now, and will undoubtedly see in the early months of 1958, some slackening in over-all business activity. Such readjustment or corrections are something that must be expected periodically during the long-term expansion. I do not expect that this correction phase will last long."

OUT OF SADNESS, JOY — Christmas loomed tragic but is taking a kinder turn for the Butler children — saucer-eyed Louise, 4 months, and sleeping Martin, 3, being cared for by policewoman Evelyn Emru in New York City. Their mother, British war bride Mrs. Brenda Butler, 25, deserted by her husband a few days ago, and penniless, felt she could not face Christmas. She turned on the gas in her tiny apartment after putting the children outside. Neighbors discovered wailing Martin, broke in and found the mother in time to save her life.

2 Men Accused By Editor

Beating Case Slated For Hearing Jan. 3

PLYMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Two men face a hearing Jan. 3 for assault and battery in the beating of a weekly newspaper publisher in his office on Christmas Eve.

Charged in the attack on Arthur L. Paddock Jr., publisher-editor of the Plymouth Advertiser, were Milton Sexton, a foundry worker, and Dave Williams, a welder.

Police Chief Bob Meiser said Paddock was slugged for refusing to tell the two men who wrote a "letter to the editor" criticizing attempts to merge several school districts in Richland and Huron counties. The Advertiser has backed the consolidation movement.

The published letter was signed "Disgusted." Mrs. Paddock, who said her husband didn't feel up to talking on the telephone, said he withheld publication of the writer's name upon request.

She said her husband was struck during a talk with the two men when he refused to identify the writer. Paddock will require some "expensive bridge work" as a result of the altercation, she added.

Army Reviewing All Cases Of Security Risk Discharges

NEW YORK (AP)—The Army is reviewing the cases of every soldier discharged as a security risk between 1948 and 1955, the New York Times said today.

When the earlier findings now appear too harsh, the nature of the man's discharge has been upgraded or the security label removed, according to a Washington dispatch to the paper.

The Times story also said: Changes have been made in almost half the cases reviewed so far and many former soldiers receiving undesirable discharges are not eligible.

The Army undertook the program voluntarily. The men affected generally know nothing of the review unless the service decides to improve their type of discharge.

In this event, the former soldier receives a letter from the adjutant general of the Army enclosing the improved discharge paper and asking him to throw the old one away. The letter also says the Army finance center will send him back pay due.

THE MILITARY services have four general types of discharge: honorable, general under honorable conditions, less than honorable or under "other than" honorable conditions and dishonorable.

The cases are being reconsidered in the light of less restrictive security standards laid down in two directives late in 1955.

The first, issued Oct. 17, was an order from Secretary of the Army Brucker requiring a "common sense" judgment on the significance of subversive ties.

The second, on Nov. 16, required consideration of the quality of the man's military service in deciding the type of discharge in security cases. Previously, the regulations made less than honorable discharges automatic in some cases no matter how good a man's service record was.

31 Persons Die In Buckeyedom, 268 in Nation

Highway Accidents Kill 24 in This State, 215 Across Country

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Black crepe replaced the green holly wreaths in many homes across the nation today as violent accidents took a heavy toll during the Christmas holidays.

More than 200 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle crashes, surpassing the 180 predicted by the safety experts.

The traffic death toll for the 30-hour period from 6 p. m. Tuesday to midnight Wednesday (local time) was 215 and final figures were expected to boost the total.

Fires took a toll of 27, and 26 other persons lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 268.

Ohio led the entire nation in number of accidental deaths over the holiday.

Twenty-nine persons died in Ohio accidents between 6 p. m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday, an Associated Press survey showed, and 26 of these died on Christmas Day.

RAIN OVER most of the state may have caused the death toll on the highways to climb. Twenty-two died on Ohio's roads.

Four children died in a fire in Zanesville and a youth and his grandparents died in Youngstown of asphyxiation.

Among Ohio's traffic deaths, four persons were killed when the car in which they were riding collided with a Pennsylvania Railroad switch engine at a crossing in Bradford in Miami County.

Another four died in three separate accidents in Lorain, all within three hours.

One man was killed and 23 injured, one critically, when a car veered across the center line on Ohio 49 five miles north of Dayton and collided with a bus.

The National Safety Council, which estimated the 180 traffic death toll, described the holiday deaths on the highways as "tragically heavy."

An Associated Press survey made for comparative purposes on the nonholiday 30-hour period from Dec. 10 through Dec. 11 showed 84 traffic deaths, 11 in fires and 27 miscellaneous accidental deaths for an over-all total of 126.

This year's traffic toll compared to the record of 253 for a one-day Christmas holiday period, in 1946. The low mark in traffic fatalities for a one-day Christmas period since World War II was 179 in 1947.

Last year's four-day Christmas holiday period set a record in traffic deaths for any holiday period, with 706. The over-all toll of 884 during the same four days also was a record for any holiday.

"There must be a better way to celebrate Christmas on the highway than by piling up a death toll 2½ times as great as the toll for a non-holiday Wednesday at this time of the year," commented Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council.

"We can only hope that the shock of this needless toll will bring about sober thinking that may hold the New Year toll to a new low."

Two persons were slightly injured in an auto accident south of Tarlton last night in which telephone and electric poles were sheared off.

The car was driven by Donald Lee Murphy, 20, Cleveland. He and a passenger, Charles Reynolds, 20, were treated for multiple bruises. Deputy Sheriff John Wolford said several high tension wires were scattered over the highway when the electric pole was knocked down. The car was demolished. Murphy told Deputy Wolford that his car, traveling north on Route 159, started sliding on the wet road, veered off the highway and crashed into the poles.

in by presidential order. While this move insured places for the nine students in the erstwhile white school, it also spread bitterness through the South and stirred up political currents yet to be measured.

THE THIRD Big story was the swift rise of Nikita Khrushchev to supreme if uneasy authority in Russia. Outpacing even Stalin in his prime, Khrushchev first outmaneuvered a cabal in the central committee and banished such veteran Kremlin hands as V. M. Molotov and Georgi M. Malenkov from the party's ruling Presidium. Then, only three months later, he handed walking papers to no less a national hero than Georgi Zhukov, the defense minister, who had backed him in the previous crisis. The charge: Zhukov was seeking personal power.

Dave Beck and James R. Hoffa of the 1,300,000-man Teamsters' Union starred in the congressional hearings on rackets that placed fourth among the year's top news events.

In two days Beck, the union president, invoked the Fifth Amendment more than 200 times under questioning on assertions of irregularities, including one that he took more than $300,000 in teamster funds.

Under indictment for income tax evasion, he left the hearings resolved to seek reelection and vindication, but later bowed out. His heir apparent, Hoffa, also called before the committee, suffered loss of memory at critical points. He admitted rring in associating with "bums and criminals," said he would clean up the union when he headed it. His election came off as scheduled but a court order has kept him out of office.

As an aftermath, the Teamsters Union was expelled in December from the AFL-CIO organization.

FIFTH AMONG the big stories on the editors' list was the boiling Middle East that generated another major crisis when Russia expanded its influence into Syria. Suddenly, this fall, Syria was hollering that Turkey and America were about to attack her. Russia was warning she would not stand idly by in any such event.

America was warning right back against Russian intervention. There were appeals to the United Nations, a U.S. airlift of tanks to Jordan, Turkish maneuvers, an Egyptian troop movement to Syria. And then Khrushchev barged into a Turkish diplomatic party and said, in effect, to forget it, there would be no war.

Other top stories, in the order the news editors placed them: Hurricane Audrey. Most devastating since the northeastern storm of 1938, its tidal wave swamped the southeastern corner of Louisiana. Dead and missing numbered 539, property loss 40 million dollars.

The President's mild stroke. This story broke after some ballots were in the mail and most editors had to assess it while it developed. The story caused dicos in the stock market, as was the case in previous presidential illnesses in 1956 and 1955, and smoked up once more the issue of establishing succession procedure for an ailing president in case of necessity.

The Asian flu. An epidemic that swept out of Hong Kong to envelop the Far East and then America was notable for its low death rate, its 12 million U. S. victims and the fact that a vaccine was developed and manufactured in a matter of months to help keep it under control. Still unanswered: whether it would return later in more virulent form.

The Girard case. A young Illinois soldier in Japan, William S. Girard, shot and killed a Japanese woman on a target range and became an international issue. America won good will by turning him over to a Japanese court which convicted him of manslaughter and gave him a suspended sentence.

Bomarc Has Interim Role

The United States is about to move into a new phase of its defensive system. Expected soon is announcement of construction plans for the first Bomarc anti-aircraft launching site. Approximately 15 of these will be built to ring the nation.

Bomarc is an anti-aircraft and anti-guided missile defense weapon. It is protection against long-range bombers and against non-ballistic missiles. It has a range of about 300 miles.

The Bomarc is not the answer for the long pull to protection against possible Russian attack. That is, unless it can be developed into a missile capable of destroying the ICBM and IRBM (ballistic missiles).

The best information at present is that Russia does not yet have operational inter-continental ballistic missiles. The Soviet may be on the verge of developing effective, operational ICBMs, but they are not now in existence in any number.

If these assumptions are correct the Bomarc bases—in combination with the Distant Early Warning (DEW) radar screen—will provide good interim protection against attack.

Is Publicity Worth It?

My wife and I dined with a delightful young man and his wife. It was a quiet family evening. Upon returning home, I read that my host and hostess intended no longer to be man and wife, and that the wife had other plans.

My friends did not seek favorable or unfavorable publicity nor were they, as a matter of fact, entitled to any. They were not of the theater or in the movies; they were neither racketeers nor gangsters. They were simple human beings who, on the whole, minded their own business and made no claims to being celebrities, although, it must be admitted that the restaurant managers might give them a good table which I presume determines social status in New York City.

When I read the item, I wondered what was the social value of picking on people who are married and have children even if there might be a rumor of an argument such as you and I might have as to how to raise children or where to go for a holiday or whether the bills are too high or is it only inflation? Do we add to the social confusion by this almost inhuman invasion of privacy of the family? Do we paint a picture of a sober society that takes itself seriously or are we a nation of Spunks, glowing in the shining lights of press agency but burning out as we meet reality?

This incident of sitting with people in the repose of their home, eating their food, drinking their wine, discussing this and that, and then discovering, in a newspaper, that it was all an illusion, that really they were not there at all; that each was in some law office, fire in the eye, anger in the heart, betraying and denouncing—it was nothing to experience the week before Christmas.

And yet, this sort of thing is constant and one wonders how much harm it does. In the first place, do we really need to know the details of other people's private lives? Who really cares whether Jack and Jill have only gone half way up the hill before Jack fell down and chased a dame and Jill went to see a lawyer?

It is a pity, of course, that Jack was so clumsy and it might have been sensible for Jill to give Jack another chance before seeing that lawyer.

But do you really care to know about the private lives of Jack and Jill and why they no longer hold hands but suffer from wandering eyeballs? Maybe I have grown old and a younger public prefers drunkards to treaties and philanderers to tariffs. Perhaps there is more interest in failure than in success, for every divorce marks some kind of a failure. The reports on juvenile delinquency are conclusive that broken homes are the greatest factor in this very serious social problem.

Whatever adds to breaking up homes therefore is damaging to our society and gossip and hearsay and the repetition of untruths can aggravate situations which could, if left to themselves and to time, work out a solution based on some consideration for the moral welfare of children brought into this world in a happier and more romantic mood.

With Sputnik in the heavens and rockets in the air, one might have a sober look at our society which was conceived in liberty but not in license, as some seem to think, particularly the self-advertising celebrities whose reputations are built not on genius but on the publicizing of their wickedness as though they were minor Benvenuto Cellinis or more boastful Francois Villons.

The pity of it is that we help these meager human beings along the path of their own destruction, for what kills them is that they come to believe their own publicity which is a fate worse than anything the young lady did that in the 19th century preachers said led to hell.

And so I have had my little say and I am sure it will do no good, for there are always those who are thrilled by a man slipping on a banana peel and if there is no other way, they will put the peel down for the man to slip upon. It always gets a laugh, if nothing else.

"Frankly, Homer—there's ANYBODY else!"

He Runs from Life, Finds It

By Hal Boyle

EVERGLADES, Fla. (P)—Some men find life by trying to run away from it.

That is true of Bud Kirk, the barefoot scholar of the Everglades.

Bud is a brawny 46-year-old commercial fisherman who goes around without shoes and has feet so tough he can strike a match on them or walk across broken glass without injury.

"I like the feel of the ground," said Bud. "I bought a new pair of shoes when I got married, and when I gave them away 10 years later they were still as good as new."

He doesn't mind that strangers consider it a bit odd for a man his age to go around shoeless. All his life Kirk has worried little about the opinions of others.

Bud went only to the eighth grade in school. In 1930, when he was 19, he wearied of trying to find factory work. He left his native Rochester, N. Y., and came here to one of America's last wildernesses.

"I was a little sour on things," said Bud.

So he plunged alone into the heart of the Everglades, and lived there alone for more than four years.

"I learned to live off the land, a thing any man can do if he is put to it," he said.

Bud emerged from time to time only to sell the skins of coon and alligators he trapped. As the years passed, Bud's anger against civilization ebbed.

In 1940 he met and married Kappy Stephens, a local school-teacher. Six years ago at the age of 40 he decided he could do with a bit more schooling, so he spent a year as a special student at the University of Miami. He supported his wife and two children, meanwhile, by the sale of wild orchids from the swamps.

Bud now is at a second crossroads in his life. He is recognized as one of the best fishermen in the area, but it is today a poor-paying business. He averages under $75 a week.

Much as he loves the mysterious Everglades, Bud feels he may have to leave them in order to make a better future for his children, who now number three. "There comes a time when responsibility catches up with you," said Bud. "I guess I'd even consider working in an office, but I hate being indoors."

When I asked him what was the greatest thing he had learned from his solitary sojourn in this watery wilderness, he said without hesitating, "Tolerance."

Jan. 23 Is Tagged For Dual Execution

COLUMBUS (P)—The Ohio Supreme Court has set Jan. 23 for the execution of two Cincinnati police slayers.

Unsuccessful in their appeal from first degree murder convictions were Robert Lee Jackson and Lemuel Sam Trotter. Both are in Ohio Penitentiary's death row. An accomplice in the Lima State Hospital for the insane.

Their victim was Cincinnati city detective Walter Hart. He was shot during a cafe robbery in 1955.

Records show the three holdup men had been together in an Alabama prison.

Sturdy Steelman

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (P)—Richard Lee May, 25-year-old steel rigger who fell 30 feet, walked into the police station and said calmly: "I think I've got a broken arm. Can you get me a doctor?"

May was right. At Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore, doctors found he had five fractures of his right arm, a broken wrist, fractured fingers and several broken ribs.

Never, Never Leave Baby

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

There probably will be more parties and more gatherings of families and neighbors during these next few days than in any other period of the year.

Naturally, you will want to attend as many of them as you possibly can. But during the holiday season, baby-sitters are at a premium.

As a result, some of you parents might be tempted to leave little Junior sleeping peacefully in his crib while you go next door or down the block to a holiday party.

Well, don't do it! The Chicago Fire Department this year has gone to great lengths to warn parents of the dangers of such practices. There is no way of telling when a fire might break out in your home or even a neighbor's home adjacent to your house.

Of course, you know enough to take proper precautions such as breaking down matches and grinding out the lighted end of a finished cigarette until it is cool to the touch. You do know enough to do that, don't you?

But, unfortunately you don't have control over every possible situation that can develop.

If your youngster is the adventuresome type — and what child isn't? — he might climb out of his crib or bed and seize upon the opportunity of being alone to investigate the countless things which have been intriguing him for so long.

Here again, a little foresight by you parents might prevent a disaster. All of you should acquaint your youngsters with the uses of potentially dangerous items by giving them a chance to inspect specially made substitutes up close.

Giving a child a blunt pair of scissors, for example, will eliminate much of his desire to grab hold of a sharp pair. A toy rubber hammer will make the real thing less interesting.

Permitting a child to blow out a match or light his birthday cake will make it less likely that he will steal one and strike it furtively.

But how many of you take such precautions?

No, it's best not to leave your youngster alone, even for a few minutes. Instead, take him with you when you're invited out. The neighbors will understand.

Question and Answer

M. J.: My son had X-rays which revealed a diaphragmatic hernia. He complains of slight pains once in a while after eating. He has no other symptoms. Does he need surgery?

Answer: Most cases do not need treatment and do not produce any severe symptoms.

Rose Bowl Trains Leaving Columbus

COLUMBUS (P)—"Across the Field," Ohio State University's spirited march, blared out over the public address system at Union Station here Wednesday night.

The occasion was the departure of 1,060 Ohio State students on three trains for California and the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game between OSU and Oregon at Pasadena.

Parents, university and railroad officials, and Gov. C. William O'Neill—in engineer's hat and bandanna to accommodate photographers—were on hand to see them off.

Two more trains, carrying 522, leave this evening, followed by an alumni train later tonight.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl, 16, and I go steady with Bob, who is also 16. A few evenings ago we were with Ann and Rex, who also go steady.

We went to Ann's house to get a show calendar, to choose which movie we wanted to see. Ann and her mother live alone; and at the time, her mother was in the hospital; so nobody was there except us four.

The boys suddenly decided that we would spend the evening there, and not go to a show. I didn't think this would be right, and said so. Bob got very angry and took me straight home; and I haven't seen him since, except when he came to get his picture.

He said he couldn't see anything wrong with the idea; and that I undoubtedly thought I was just too good to be in Ann's house which isn't true at all. I did really enjoy going with Bob. Was I wrong in acting as I did?

E. N.

DEAR E.N.: Of course you weren't wrong in refusing to be led by the nose into an escapee of the sort proposed. And don't be deceived by Bob's show of wrath. He knows how right you were—and that's why he can't forgive

O'Neill Is Lone GOP Possible Still Silent

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Republican slate of candidates for top state offices in the May primary election is, for all practical purposes, complete today.

Gov. C. William O'Neill is the only one who hasn't declared himself a candidate, but there is no uncertainty of his intentions.

Some nominal opposition faces veteran office holders. U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, who announced Monday that he will seek his third consecutive term, is opposed by Charles A. McCarthy of Cincinnati. O'Neill, expected to make his announcement early next year, faces a primary race for the gubernatorial nomination against Alvin L. Spriggs of Mount Gilead, a former justice of the peace.

Republican candidates for lieutenant governor are incumbent Paul Herbert, seeking a sixth term, and Dr. Joseph M. Centanni of Cleveland Heights. Republican incumbents unopposed for other posts are Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe and State Supreme Court Judge James G. Stewart of Cincinnati for the Jan. 2 term. Willard D. Campbell, former Guernsey County judge, prosecutor and legislator, is unopposed for the Jan. 1 term on the Supreme Court.

Blacksmith Admits Columbus Slaying

COLUMBUS (AP) — Columbus police today are holding a 30-year-old blacksmith for investigation of murder. The man told a minister at a church here that he killed a man last January in a fight. Police have no record of a slaying.

The man, Donald Mack of Phoenix, Ariz., told police he has been running from his conscience ever since he hit a man, whom he could not identify.

Mack said he and two other men had been drinking and were in a warehouse near the railroad station here. He said he hit one of the men and the man fell to the floor. Mack said he could not revive him and thought he was dead.

you. He's been busy trying to save face with himself ever since. Your sensible reaction made him feel like a fool—also as if he had no sex appeal for you, since you didn't jump at the chance to be "alone with him." That's your real crime in his eyes.

I don't think that you should bother, especially, about trying to patch up the difficulty. Bob is acting the heel twice over—first in trying to inveigle you into a sex trap of sorts; and second in trying to punish you for having reacted with first-rate intelligence, when a tricky situation called for a smart-girl decision.

M. H.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Since reading your Nov. 15 issue about the mysterious case of the "girl secretary hired to do nothing, by a personnel manager who has vanished," life in our office has become unbearable.

In order that we can return to our normal engrossment in what they are, and put this girl out of mind, would you be good enough to advise us what happened to her.

S. S.

DEAR S.S.: The young lady wrote from Manhattan—a very big place, where anything is possible. And I've had no further word, since I replied to her first communication. As you may recall, I furnished her suggestions for trying to get on record, with the switchboard, the mail room, the new supervisor of personnel, et al, as being on the payroll, and on the premises. Then, if they still ignore you, resign, I said.

Maybe she will catch your fore-going cry for relief from suspense, and give us a report on her progress (if any).

Death Claims Baby Shot Before Birth

TOLEDO (AP) — An infant girl, delivered by Caesarean operation after her mother was accidentally shot in the abdomen, is dead.

The mother, Mrs. Vickie Portillo, 26, took the pistol from a closet in her home and handed it to Raul Lopez, 25, who was to sell it to get money to buy Christmas gifts.

But the gun discharged, hitting Mrs. Portillo and breaking a leg of her unborn child.

Housewives Never Had It So Good!

By CECIL Y. BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Dozens of new food products and cooking accessories showed up in 1957. Here's a rundown on those we believe, after testing, deserve a long life.

A new angelfood cake mix, lemon-custard flavored, turns out cakes that are moist, high and an attractive golden color.

Cooks who bake cream puffs from the new mix in stick form will find them comparable to the made-from-scratch product and easier to prepare successfully.

It was just about time a good cracker appeared on the scene and a new one with a potato base has become a snacker's delight. Crisp and flavorful, these crackers are excellent to use for the spreads and dips that are so often served with before-dinner drinks.

Hosts who are showmen at heart like the new Cafe Diable. Up to now any epicure who wanted to savor his New Orleans beverage at home had to add his own cloves, nutmeg, and citrus fruit rind to coffee. Now ground coffee, spices and natural flavorings come combined in an 8-ounce vacuum-packed can all ready to be brewed, sweetened and flamed.

One of the best of the heart-and-egg frozen products to appear is Egg Foo Young; patties and sauce are packed separately and both are excellent.

An old-fashioned dessert comes in a package containing a crunchy crust mix (not a pie crust), a can of apple slices and a crumb topping.

An electric can opener appeals to men as well as women. A spanking-new model that can stand on a counter has a removable cutting wheel and magnet for easy washing.

A new lid lifter, made of steel with a nickel-plated finish, opens all vacuum jars and bottles, with or without shoulders.

Of special interest to brides: copper-clad stainless steel individual 10-ounce round baking dishes. Good-looking enough to bring to the table, they are practical for casserole cooking as well as for warming up leftover foods.

Annual Christmas Party Held At Peter's Home

The annual Kline Family Christmas party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Peters, E. Mount St., Sunday. It was also the occasion of the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Kline, Chillicothe.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George D. Kline, all of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Kline, all of Chillicothe, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark of Williamsport, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. James Peters, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Kline.

Grandchildren were: Roger, Richard, Kris, Kay Anne and Linda Kline, Ricky Kline, Eddie and Cheryl Peters, Andy and Jill Hoffman, Nancy, Beverly, Janet and Gregory Peck, Bruce and Bobby Clark.

A turkey dinner highlighted the evening. Another feature was the distribution of gifts by Santa. Packages had all been placed under a lighted Christmas tree.

For a superbly tangy but mellow casserole, arrange fresh cauliflower flowerlets in buttered baking dish, cover with cooked cubed ham; pour over a sharp cheddar cheese sauce, sprinkle with crumbled potato chips and bake until bubbly.

18th Century Decorations To Be Featured at Kingwood

"Open House" To Be Held Sunday

Kingwood Center, Mansfield, will climax its activities for the year with a special holiday open house for visitors, Sunday, December 29, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., featuring Christmas decorations throughout Kingwood Hall as well as out-of-doors.

The entrance gates will be adorned with six-foot high plaques of evergreens and gilded gourds. Along the wooded drive to Kingwood Hall a lighted star repeats the gold, white and green of the two huge Christmas trees on the south terrace.

Kingwood Hall will be decorated in keeping with its 18 century French architecture. A celestial mobile of fiberglass and gilded stars hangs from the chandelier in the stairwell and the foyer pool has been transformed into a frozen fountain flanked with white chrysanthemums.

Helen Hayes Shares Honors With Young Broadway Star

AP Newsfeatures

The First Lady of the American stage shared honors with a winsome newcomer on Broadway this year.

Helen Hayes, who celebrated her golden anniversary as a star in 1955, continued as top luminary in the theatrical heavens in 1957 with her triumphant return in a gay and sentimental play, "Time Remembered."

But shining with almost equal magnitude was youthful Mary Ure, making her New York stage debut in the leading role of the hit play, "Look Back in Anger."

Miss Ure, 24, is a Scottish born actress who started as a teacher in speech training, then took to the footlights when she was offered a scholarship by the British Broadcasting Corp.

She won a reputation as a promising young star in London, before coming to New York. Her most successful role there was that of Ophelia in "Hamlet."

Mary plays the role of Alison in the current Broadway hit, which was written by her husband, John Osborne, author of the play.

Other top performances of the year by women on Broadway were principally by veterans of the stage. Florence Eldridge has scored a triumph in Eugene O'Neill's tragedy, "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Shining Light Bible Class Has Annual Party

The annual Christmas party of the Shining Light Bible Class was held recently at the Service Center. It opened with a song service consisting of Christmas Carols, followed by a short business session led by the president, Mrs. Myrtle Trimmer. Letters were read from several former members of the class with Christmas greetings. The program for the evening followed. Devotions were conducted by Rev. O. F. Gibbs, who read part of 2nd Chapter of St. Luke, commenting upon it and offering prayer.

Several Christmas readings were given by the following members: Mrs. Mable Dumm, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, Mrs. Cecil Porter, and Mrs. Isley Greeno.

All Eight Grades Participate

A capacity audience attended the St. Joseph School program held Sunday at 3 p. m. in the church basement when all eight grades of the school presented special performances.

Grade 1 as a choral group with David Ragen as leader sang "Jingle Bells" and repeated a poem, "What Can They Do?"

A play, "The Real Meaning of Christmas" presented by Grade 2 featured the following cast: Kathie Sanscrainte, grandmother; Kathy Lipp, Margaret S. A. P. Lake, Stephen Cupp, Richard Thornton and Paul Bochrath, the grandchildren. Others in the class sang and danced.

Grades 3 and 4 presented a play "The Christmas Star" with Joseph Rayburn taking the part of Joseph and Mary Lou Borries the part of Mary.

Grades 5 and 6 gave some Mexican Christmas customs, the Christmas procession which had its origin in Spain and the "Festival Pinata".

Sue Miner took the part of the "Angel" and Robert Sadler the part of Joseph while Karen Wilder acted as Mary.

Santa Claus made his appearance after the program.

Party Follows Carol Singing At Hospital

One of the highlights of the Christmas Season for Girl Scout Troop 785, Five Trails, was a caroling party on Monday night. The girls sang at several homes in town then went to the Berger Hospital, where they were invited to sing for the patients.

Afterwards there was a gift exchange and refreshments at the home of Mrs. C. E. Anderson.

Several of the girls presented a pantomime skit for the entertainment of the other members of the troop.

Those attending were: Mrs. R. Chelkowski, leader, Mrs. C. E. Anderson, assistant leader, Jane Abbott, Kelly Anderson, Bobbie Blue, Betsy Barnhart, Marjorie Cook, Karen Chelkowski, Pat Chelkowski, Sharon Hart, Sharon May, Sandy Quencil, Susan Tyson, Julie Sanscrainte, Nan Sanscrainte, and Sandra Shellhamer.

Housewives Never Had It So Good!

By CECIL Y. BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Dozens of new food products and cooking accessories showed up in 1957. Here's a rundown on those we believe, after testing, deserve a long life.

A new angelfood cake mix, lemon-custard flavored, turns out cakes that are moist, high and an attractive golden color.

Cooks who bake cream puffs from the new mix in stick form will find them comparable to the made-from-scratch product and easier to prepare successfully.

It was just about time a good cracker appeared on the scene and a new one with a potato base has become a snacker's delight. Crisp and flavorful, these crackers are excellent to use for the spreads and dips that are so often served with before-dinner drinks.

Hosts who are showmen at heart like the new Cafe Diable. Up to now any epicure who wanted to savor his New Orleans beverage at home had to add his own cloves, nutmeg, and citrus fruit rind to coffee. Now ground coffee, spices and natural flavorings come combined in an 8-ounce vacuum-packed can all ready to be brewed, sweetened and flamed.

One of the best of the heart-and-egg frozen products to appear is Egg Foo Young; patties and sauce are packed separately and both are excellent.

An old-fashioned dessert comes in a package containing a crunchy crust mix (not a pie crust), a can of apple slices and a crumb topping.

An electric can opener appeals to men as well as women. A spanking-new model that can stand on a counter has a removable cutting wheel and magnet for easy washing.

A new lid lifter, made of steel with a nickel-plated finish, opens all vacuum jars and bottles, with or without shoulders.

Of special interest to brides: copper-clad stainless steel individual 10-ounce round baking dishes. Good-looking enough to bring to the table, they are practical for casserole cooking as well as for warming up leftover foods.

Annual Christmas Party Held At Peter's Home

The annual Kline Family Christmas party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Peters, E. Mount St., Sunday. It was also the occasion of the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Kline, Chillicothe.

Present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George D. Kline, all of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Kline, all of Chillicothe; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark of Williamsport, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. James Peters, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Kline.

Grandchildren were: Roger, Richard, Kris, Kay Anne and Linda Kline, Ricky Kline, Eddie and Cheryl Peters, Andy and Jill Hoffman, Nancy, Beverly, Janet and Gregory Peck, Bruce and Bobby Clark.

A turkey dinner highlighted the evening. Another feature was the distribution of gifts by Santa. Packages had all been placed under a lighted Christmas tree.

For a superbly tangy but mellow casserole, arrange fresh cauliflower flowerlets in buttered baking dish, cover with cooked cubed ham; pour over a sharp cheddar cheese sauce, sprinkle with crumbled potato chips and bake until bubbly.

Kingwood Center, Mansfield, will climax its activities for the year with a special holiday open house for visitors, Sunday, December 29, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., featuring Christmas decorations throughout Kingwood Hall as well as out-of-doors.

The decorations were designed by Carlton B. Lees, Horticulturist, and Mrs. Barbara Meisse, professional designer, both of the Kingwood Center staff.

The entrance gates will be adorned with six-foot high plaques of evergreens and gilded gourds. Along the wooded drive to Kingwood Hall a lighted star repeats the gold, white and green of the two huge Christmas trees on the south terrace.

Kingwood Hall will be decorated in keeping with its 18 century French architecture. A celestial mobile of fiberglass and gilded stars hangs from the chandelier in the stairwell and the foyer pool has been transformed into a frozen fountain flanked with white chrysanthemums.

Della Robia wreaths containing fresh fruits, wreaths of dried pods and other materials, will decorate the mantles; special arrangements of red carnations, red and white poinsettias, and white chrysanthemums will complete the holiday theme.

Mrs. Sarah C. Wade, Activities Supervisor, has announced that Kingwood Hall will be closed on Sundays until April 6, at which time it will reopen with a special Easter display. Weekday visiting hours will remain the same—9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, holidays excepted.

Helen Hayes Shares Honors With Young Broadway Star

AP Newsfeatures

The First Lady of the American stage shared honors with a win-some newcomer on Broadway this year.

Helen Hayes, who celebrated her golden anniversary as a star in 1955, continued as top luminary in the theatrical heavens in 1957 with her triumphant return in a gay and sentimental play, "Time Remembered."

But shining with almost equal magnitude was youthful Mary Ure, making her New York stage debut in the leading role of the hit play, "Look Back in Anger."

Miss Ure, 24, is a Scottish born actress who started as a teacher in speech training, then took to the footlights when she was offered a scholarship by the British Broadcasting Corp.

She won a reputation as a promising young star in London, before coming to New York. Her most successful role there was that of Ophelia in "Hamlet."

Mary plays the role of Alison in the current Broadway hit, which was written by her husband, John Osborne, author of the play.

Other top performances of the year by women on Broadway were principally by veterans of the stage. Florence Eldridge has scored a triumph in Eugene O'Neill's tragedy, "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Nuclear Radiation Being Harnessed In Lab To Explore Whole New Field

Editor's Note: Following is the first of two articles coming from the Battelle Memorial Institute, nuclear laboratories near West Jefferson in Madison County.

By DUKE YATES

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Hung on a display board in one of the laboratories of Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus are two small plastic bottles that have been exposed to high temperatures.

One of the bottles is a misshapen blob, distorted, like most plastics, by heat. But the other bottle, though made of the same plastic, has retained its shape.

Up in one corner of the board are two slices of bread. Each was sealed in a transparent bag last Oct. 31. One of the slices, as you would expect, is covered with mold. But the other slice remains as fresh as the day it was purchased.

These modest exhibits are the harbingers of a coming revolution in our way of life that will be brought about by the peaceful application of nuclear radiation—that deadly byproduct of the atom bomb.

Harnessed in the laboratory, however, radiation is being used by the scientists at Battelle to explore a whole new world. That new looking plastic bottle and the fresh slice of bread were exposed to radiation.

Food preservation and the improvement of numerous products such as plastics are two of perhaps a score of major research projects in nuclear science now in progress at Battelle.

Battelle scientists are engaged in studies ranging from the use of radiation to sterilize drugs to the design of reactors for atomic powered aircraft.

Much of their work involves designing parts for nuclear power reactors. Some of the basic design work on the reactor for the first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, was done at Battelle.

The Institute's nuclear research center is under the direction of Battelle's physics department manager, Dr. H. R. Nelson. Dr. Nelson also is a member of an Atomic Energy Commission advisory committee and a member of the Ohio Atomic Energy Advisory Board.

Battelle's nuclear research facilities are located in Columbus and near West Jefferson. The center's major radiation laboratories are at West Jefferson in the midst of the rolling farm country, about 14 miles west of Columbus in Madison County. They are in a group of three brick and metal buildings situated on a small hill.

Here is the so-called "hot cell" laboratory where experiments with intensely radioactive materials are conducted by remote control.

Here also is the critical assembly laboratory where full-scale models of nuclear power plants—such as that which drives the Nautilus—are tested behind concrete shields. Their operation is observed by means of closed circuit television.

But the heart of the center is the nuclear reactor—a concrete monster that towers nearly three stories inside a specially constructed building.

A nuclear reactor is essentially a controlled atomic explosion. What goes on inside the reactor is identical with what occurs in an atomic blast—except that the process is much slower.

The Battelle instrument, one of the largest pool-type reactors in the world, was completed last year at a cost of $770,000. At full power it can generate enough energy to light the homes of a small village.

Yet this reactor is not intended to make use of atomic power. In general, there are two types of reactors—power reactors which use the heat generated by nuclear fission to generate electricity or other forms of power, and research reactors which use the radiation by-products of fission for scientific research. The Battelle reactor is of this latter type.

The core of the Battelle reactor—the place where fission occurs—is about the size of an upended suitcase. It consists of an arrangement of aluminum shielded uranium plates suspended near the bottom of a 28-foot deep pool of water—hence the name pool-type reactor. The pool acts as a radiation shield as do the concrete sides of the pool. In places, the pool sides are six feet thick.

The reactor fuel consists of 8.8 pounds of a uranium alloy containing 90 per cent U235—the fissionable form of uranium. The fuel is valued at $8,000 a pound.

The uranium cannot be purchased, however. It belongs by law to the Atomic Energy Commission and is leased to Battelle. At full power, the reactor uses up about $17 worth of uranium—about three one hundredths of an ounce—a day.

Nuclear fission in the uranium fuel begins when the control rods are withdrawn from the core. The control rods consist of a substance—in this case a compound of boron and carbon—which absorbs neutrons. Neutrons are the energy particles that cause fission.

When the control rods are lowered into the core they shut down the reaction by preventing the flow of neutrons. The control rods are withdrawn by electron magnets and can be dropped back into the core in an instant should any emergency arise or whenever a particular experiment is concluded. Dropping the control rods is called "slamming the reactor."

Cincy Cops Probe Pair of Shootings

CINCINNATI (AP)—A man and a woman faced murder charges here today in connection with separate Christmas Eve slayings.

In one case, Clyde Thompson, was accused of having shot his wife Virginia, 41.

In the other, Mrs. Frances Parks, 32, was accused of the slaying of her husband Charles, 34. Police said she fired a shotgun at her husband as he attempted to enter their apartment after she had him arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

Clips 4 Generations

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—The day 13-month-old Harold Pulsifer III got his first haircut was a special day—not only for him but the barber. Harold was the fourth generation Pulsifer whose locks have been snipped by Antoine J. Lemieux, 59, of Portland. Tony who started barbering in Fall River Mass., used to cut the hair of Edward E. Pulsifer in Sanford, Me., in 1925. Edward was Harold's great grandfather. Harold E. Sr., Harold E. Jr., and now Harold III have become Tony's customers in Portland.

Educated Deer

MILTON, Pa. (AP)—Add a new advantage of higher education:

A deer frightened by hunters near this Central Pennsylvania town took refuge in the Milton Area Joint High School building. The buck leaped through a window and made a tour of the trade shops before departing through another window when officials came to open the school for classes.

Slamming stops fission almost at once.

In operation the reactor core and the area around it glow with a brilliant blue light. This called the Cerenkov effect. It is caused by high speed energy particles which as they leave the core are slowed by the water and give off part of their energy as light.

The reactor is used to test the effect of radiation on various materials. Substances to be tested are brought close to the reactor core either by suspending them in the pool or placing them in what are called beam tubes. These are tubes which open through the concrete base of the reactor and provide access to the core.

After irradiation, the test materials are transferred in radiation-proof containers to the hot cell laboratory for further study.

What would happen if the fission in the reactor ever got out of control? That would be almost impossible because of safety factors built into the instrument. These would automatically "slam" the reactor at the first sign that fission was rising above the safety level.

But even if fission did get out of hand, there would be no atomic explosion. The fuel elements would melt and the increased radiation of the high fission level would make the building and area around it unsafe. So central Ohio residents need not worry that they will wake up some morning to see a mushroom cloud hovering on the horizon in the direction of their capital city.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—This was the gloomiest month for the James C. Hagerty school of public relations. Hagerty jumped from a needle that exposes one of the thinnest skins in town. His star pupil, Murray Snyder, got caught in a gaudy snafu.

Hagerty is one of the best White House press secretaries ever. For years Snyder served under him as the No. 2 White House press secretary.

No one ever did more to make President Eisenhower look good than these two.

Last February Eisenhower promoted Snyder to one of the most important and touchy public relations jobs in the world. He made him assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

Hagerty isn't Mary's little lamb by a long sight. He has a quick temper.

So sometimes when he is asked a silly question at his news conferences, his patience in answering is a tribute to his self-control.

Last week, Art Buchwald, a columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, tried a spoof on one of these conferences by writing of an imaginary one with a character named Jim. He didn't use the name Hagerty.

It was full of silly questions and deadpan answers. But it annoyed Hagerty, who's been singularly free of jibes, jokes, needles and pokes.

"Unadulterated rot," he called it in a Paris news conference where he brought up the subject himself. Thus, Hagerty not only showed he gets black and blue if you touch him but broke the public relations man's No. 1 rule.

This is the rule: If you don't like something, don't get it more publicity. Buchwald's column might have been a one-day wonder, soon forgotten. But Hagerty got it worldwide attention by attacking it.

Snyder had his bad day when the Navy Vanguard satellite rocket fell on its face Dec. 6 at Cape Canaveral, Fla., after an enormous publicity buildup from the Defense Department.

One of the reasons newsmen were given so much information about the attempted Vanguard launching was perhaps to offset Russia's publicity with the Sputniks. But after the Vanguard fiasco, two schools of orators sprang up.

One denounced the Defense Department for permitting such publicity before the satellite was actually sent skyward; the other praised the department for being so open with the public.

Some high Navy brass put the responsibility squarely on Snyder. They said they had wanted a secret launching but were overruled. Snyder said he wanted to let the

Pedestrian Shoots Cleveland Driver

CLEVELAND (AP)—Roosevelt Busch, 30, was driving along Central Avenue Wednesday night when a man walked slowly in front of the car, causing Busch to stop.

Then, witnesses told police, Busch stuck his head out the window and shouted at the jaywalker. At that, the man pulled a gun and shot Busch.

Busch died 2½ hours later in St. Vincent Charity Hospital.

Police are looking for the man who shot Busch.

public know all he could within the limits of security.

He said his job was "not to exploit the successes and hide the failures." But the next day the Air Force—which runs the Cape Canaveral test center for the Defense Department—really wrapped the missile range in secrecy, trying to make news getting there as tough as possible.

By DUKE YATES
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Hung on a display board in one of the laboratories of Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus are two small plastic bottles that have been exposed to high temperatures. One of the bottles is a misshapen blob, distorted, like most plastics, by heat. But the other bottle, though made of the same plastic, has retained its shape. Up in one corner of the board are two slices of bread. Each was sealed in a transparent bag last Oct. 31. One of the slices, as you would expect, is covered with mold. But the other slice remains as fresh as the day it was purchased.

These modest exhibits are the harbingers of a coming revolution in our way of life that will be brought about by the peaceful application of nuclear radiation—that deadly byproduct of the atom bomb. Harnessed in the laboratory, however, radiation is being used by the scientists at Battelle to explore a whole new world. That new looking plastic bottle and the fresh slice of bread were exposed to radiation.

Food preservation and the improvement of numerous products such as plastics are two of perhaps a score of major research projects in nuclear science now in progress at Battelle.

Battelle scientists are engaged in studies ranging from the use of radiation to sterilize drugs to the design of reactors for atomic powered aircraft. Much of their work involves designing parts for nuclear power reactors. Some of the basic design work on the reactor for the first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, was done at Battelle.

The Institute's nuclear research center is under the direction of Battelle's physics department manager, Dr. H. R. Nelson. Dr. Nelson also is a member of an Atomic Energy Commission advisory committee and a member of the Ohio Atomic Energy Advisory Board.

Battelle's nuclear research facilities are located in Columbus and near West Jefferson. The center's major radiation laboratories are at West Jefferson in the midst of the rolling farm country, about 14 miles west of Columbus in Madison County. They are in a group of three brick and metal buildings situated on a small hill.

Here is the so-called "hot cell" laboratory where experiments with intensely radioactive materials are conducted by remote control.

Here also is the critical assembly laboratory where full-scale models of nuclear power plants—such as that which drives the Nautilus—are tested behind concrete shields. Their operation is observed by means of closed circuit television.

But the heart of the center is the nuclear reactor—a concrete monster that towers nearly three stories inside a specially constructed building.

A nuclear reactor is essentially a controlled atomic explosion. What goes on inside the reactor is identical with what occurs in an atomic blast—except that the process is much slower.

The Battelle instrument, one of the largest pool-type reactors in the world, was completed last year at a cost of $770,000. At full power it can generate enough energy to light the homes of a small village.

Yet this reactor is not intended to make use of atomic power. In general, there are two types of reactors—power reactors which use the heat generated by nuclear fission to generate electricity or other forms of power, and research reactors which use the radiation by-products of fission for scientific research. The Battelle reactor is of this latter type.

The core of the Battelle reactor—the place where fission occurs—is about the size of an upended suitcase. It consists of an arrangement of aluminum shielded uranium plates suspended near the bottom of a 28-foot deep pool of water—hence the name pool-type reactor. The pool acts as a radiation shield as do the concrete sides of the pool. In places, the pool sides are six feet thick.

The reactor fuel consists of 8.8 pounds of a uranium alloy containing 90 per cent U235—the fissionable form of uranium. The fuel is valued at $8,000 a pound.

The uranium cannot be purchased, however. It belongs by law to the Atomic Energy Commission and is leased to Battelle. At full power, the reactor uses up about $17 worth of uranium—about three one hundredths of an ounce—a day.

Nuclear fission in the uranium fuel begins when the control rods are withdrawn from the core. The control rods consist of a substance—in this case a compound of boron and carbon—which absorbs neutrons. Neutrons are the energy particles that cause fission.

When the control rods are lowered into the core they shut down the reaction by preventing the flow of neutrons. The control rods are withdrawn by electron magnets and can be dropped back into the core in an instant should any emergency arise or whenever a particular experiment is concluded. Dropping the control rods is called "slamming the reactor."

Cincy Cops Probe Pair of Shootings

CINCINNATI (AP)—A man and a woman faced murder charges here today in connection with separate Christmas Eve slayings. In one case, Clyde Thompson, was accused of having shot his wife Virginia, 41.

In the other, Mrs. Frances Parks, 32, was accused of the slaying of her husband Charles, 34. Police said she fired a shotgun at her husband as he attempted to enter their apartment after she had had him arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

Clips 4 Generations

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—The day 13-month-old Harold Pulsifer III got his first haircut was a special day—not only for him but the barber. Harold was the fourth generation Pulsifer whose locks have been snipped by Antoine J. Lemieux, 59, of Portland. Tony who started barbering in Fall River Mass., used to cut the hair of Edward E. Pulsifer in Sanford, Me., in 1925. Edward was Harold's great grandfather. Harold E. Sr., Harold E. Jr., and now Harold III have become Tony's customers in Portland.

Educated Deer

MILTON, Pa. (AP)—Add a new advantage of higher education: A deer frightened by hunters near this Central Pennsylvania town took refuge in the Milton Area Joint High School building. The buck leaped through a window and made a tour of the trade shops before departing through another window when officials came to open the school for classes.

Slamming stops fission almost at once.

In operation the reactor core and the area around it glow with a brilliant blue light. This called the Cerenkov effect. It is caused by high speed energy particles which as they leave the core are slowed by the water and give off part of their energy as light.

The reactor is used to test the effect of radiation on various materials. Substances to be tested are brought close to the reactor core either by suspending them in the pool or placing them in what are called beam tubes. These are tubes which open through the concrete base of the reactor and provide access to the core.

After irradiation, the test materials are transferred in radiation-proof containers to the hot cell laboratory for further study.

What would happen if the fission in the reactor ever got out of control? That would be almost impossible because of safety factors built into the instrument. These would automatically "slam" the reactor at the first sign that fission was rising above the safety level.

But even if fission did get out of hand, there would be no atomic explosion. The fuel elements would melt and the increased radiation of the high fission level would make the building and area around it unsafe. So central Ohio residents need not worry that they will wake up some morning to see a mushroom cloud hovering on the horizon in the direction of their capital city.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—This was the gloomiest month for the James C. Hagerty school of public relations. Hagerty jumped from a needle that exposes one of the thinnest skins in town. His star pupil, Murray Snyder, got caught in a gaudy snafu.

Hagerty is one of the best White House press secretaries ever. For years Snyder served under him as the No. 2 White House press secretary.

No one ever did more to make President Eisenhower look good than these two.

Last February Eisenhower promoted Snyder to one of the most important and touchy public relations jobs in the world. He made him assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

Hagerty isn't Mary's little lamb by a long sight. He has a quick temper.

So sometimes when he is asked a silly question at his news conferences, his patience in answering is a tribute to his self-control.

Last week, Art Buchwald, a columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, tried a spoof on one of these conferences by writing of an imaginary one with a character named Jim. He didn't use the name Hagerty.

It was full of silly questions and deadpan answers. But it annoyed Hagerty, who's been singularly free of jibes, jokes, needles and pokes.

"Unadulterated rot," he called it in a Paris news conference where he brought up the subject himself. Thus, Hagerty not only showed he gets black and blue if you touch him but broke the public relations man's No. 1 rule.

This is the rule: If you don't like something, don't get it more publicity. Buchwald's column might have been a one-day wonder, soon forgotten. But Hagerty got it worldwide attention by attacking it.

Snyder had his bad day when the Navy Vanguard satellite rocket fell on its face Dec. 6 at Cape Canaveral, Fla., after an enormous publicity buildup from the Defense Department.

One of the reasons newsmen were given so much information about the attempted Vanguard launching was perhaps to offset Russia's publicity with the Sputniks. But after the Vanguard fiasco, two schools of orators sprang up.

One denounced the Defense Department for permitting such publicity before the satellite was actually sent skyward; the other praised the department for being so open with the public.

Some high Navy brass put the responsibility squarely on Snyder. They said they had wanted a secret launching but were overruled. Snyder said he wanted to let the

Pedestrian Shoots Cleveland Driver

CLEVELAND (AP)—Roosevelt Busch, 30, was driving along Central Avenue Wednesday night when a man walked slowly in front of the car, causing Busch to stop.

Then, witnesses told police, Busch stuck his head out the window and shouted at the jaywalker. At that, the man pulled a gun and shot Busch.

Busch died 2½ hours later in St. Vincent Charity Hospital. Police are looking for the man who shot Busch.

public know all he could within the limits of security.

He said his job was "not to exploit the successes and hide the failures."

But the next day the Air Force—which runs the Cape Canaveral test center for the Defense Department—really wrapped the missile range in secrecy, trying to make news getting there as tough as possible.

Building of Accurate ICBM Draws Near, Scientists Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—The day of the ballistic missile which has both intercontinental range and near pinpoint accuracy is just about here.

To reach this development stage, scientists have duplicated the principles of the universe and created temperatures 1 1/2 times hotter than the sun.

They have developed guidance instruments which can detect and correct a deviation in the flight of a missile of one hundredth of one degree.

This means that a missile fired at the moon 238,000 miles away would hit a target no longer than a football field.

Further, these instruments are sturdy enough to be packed inside a missile which accelerates at nine times the force of gravity.

From the military standpoint two major problems have had to be mastered:

1. How to guide a missile from Point A to Point B 5,000 miles or more distant with near-pinpoint accuracy.

2. How to bring back an object ranging 600 to 1,000 miles in space without having it burned to a cinder by atmospheric friction.

To solve the first problem — at least theoretically — scientists have taken the gyroscope, which employs the principles of the universe, and incorporated it into the navigation system known as "inertial guidance."

With this system a missile, an airplane, a ship or submarine can be directed to its destination without compass, radio or radar and without a glimpse of earth, sun or stars.

The solution to the second problem involved an almost incredible search for a material—and how to shape that material once found—which had the ability:

To withstand the shock of firing. To enter the minus-100-degree cold of space without cracking. To withstand temperatures of 15,000 degrees Fahrenheit — 1 1/2 times hotter than the sun's surface—without burning up.

In arriving at a solution the scientists developed a highly secret ceramic and metallic dust compound and an equally secret shape.

In essence the principle of the gyroscope is as old as the world. Indeed, the world is a gyroscope.

The world spins on its axis with an equatorial speed of 1,000 miles per hour plus. This centrifugal force keeps its axis pointed to within one degree of the North Star.

In brief, a gyroscope can be given enough spin to keep its axis in a fixed position. If you want to change the direction of an object, you simply change the axis of the gyroscope.

The new inertial guidance system employing the gyroscope was first announced last April 18 by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was largely the work of Dr. Charles S. Draper and Dr. Walter Wrigley.

They began work in 1939 on the problem under the sponsorship of Sperry and the U. S. Navy Bureau of Ordnance.

The heart of the system is a completely free-floating gyroscope sealed in a four-inch cylinder about the size of a tomato can. It spins in a fluid at 12,000 revolutions per minute supported by practically frictionless sapphire bearings.

By aligning the axis of the gyroscope to an imaginary star, any object which moves and can be controlled can be directed to a pre-determined target.

Further, no natural phenomena such as weather, sunspots or magnetic influences will cause it to deviate from its path.

The problem of re-entry has been tackled by nearly 20 private concerns. One of the pioneers in the field is AVCO Manufacturing Corp. at Everett, Mass.

AVCO is under a 111-million-dollar contract to the Air Force to build the nose cone for the intercontinental ballistic missile Titan, now being made by the Martin Co., of Baltimore.

At the Massachusetts laboratories of AVCO a 55-year-old invention known as the shock tube was refined by Dr. Arthur Kantrowitz, one of the nation's top scientists in gas dynamics.

Kantrowitz's shock tube is a large, cannonlike assembly which, when fired, produces a shock wave so fast that its travel time is measured in millionths of a second.

The tube is fired by the high compression of a combination of gases or the explosion of oxygen and hydrogen tempered by helium and nitrogen.

As the gases flow over any object placed in the chamber of the tube conditions result which approximate that of a missile nose cone traveling at 18,000 miles per hour. The resistance of the object to the flow of gases produces temperatures of 15,000 degrees or more.

AVCO has announced that it finally does have a cone which will meet the military's requirements. While no details are available it is known that the cone is blunt and rounded with a needle projecting outward to break the sound barrier.

Australian Netters Trip Yankees Again

Mackay, Seixas Lose
Opening Matches in
Singles Division

MELBOURNE (AP)—Malcolm Anderson and Ashley Cooper, Australia's latest pair of court killers, won the opening singles matches in the Davis Cup Challenge Round today and put the American forces' backs squarely against the wall.

Anderson took a long, tense struggle from Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 7-9, 6-3, while Cooper panted to another five-set triumph over veteran Vic Seixas, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, while a capacity crowd of more than 20,000—said to be one of the largest ever to witness a tennis match—squirmed at the uncertainty of the matches.

The Aussies, latest in a long production line of tennis twins that included the likes of Frank Sedgman and Ken MacGregor and Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, had their troubles with the U.S. pair.

In fact, hardly a spectator budged from his seat on this dank, gloomy day until the final stroke was smashed.

Now the Aussies have merely to win either Friday's doubles or one of Saturday's singles to keep possession of the cup they have won for the last two years.

The order of the final singles will be the reverse of today's matches. U.S. Captain Billy Talbert said he still was undecided over the makeup of his doubles team for Friday. Ordinarily it would be Seixas and Gardner Mulloy. But after Seixas' long match against Cooper, Talbert may decide to use Mackay, who endeared himself with the Australian fans as a result of his fine match against Anderson.

At the end, the spectators, who regard the Americans almost as fondly as their own, were wildly cheering the 22-year-old Mackay, a virtual unknown here.

Seixas' defeat was a disappointment, to be sure, but Mackay's performance was a heartening sight from the U.S. viewpoint. Right down to the final point, Barry, a 6-4 graduate of the University of Michigan, fought Anderson.

Disadvantages meant nothing to him. He came back time and again when all seemed lost.

This was the lad who never had played on the center court in Forest Hills let alone a Davis Cup match.

Field Goal Wins Game For North

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A crackling duel between passer Jim Ninowski and runner Dick Christy highlighted the Shrine's Christmas night North-South college all-star football game. But it was a 36-yard field goal by Dave Kaiser that produced the North's 23-20 victory.

Kaiser is the same Michigan State end who booted a three-pointer that gave the Spartans a 17-14 triumph over UCLA in the 1956 Rose Bowl game.

Ninowski, Michigan State quarterback, turned in a record passing performance for this charity game by completing 13 of 33 throws for 295 yards and a touchdown. Michigan State end Bob Jewett hauled in eight aeriels for 201 yards and a score.

Christy's running — he scored twice and raced 70 yards from scrimmage and 99 more with punts—brought even more cheers from the crowd of 28,303 than Ninowski's passes. The All America halfback from North Carolina State was the key man in a whirlwind rally that almost turned defeat into victory for the Rebels.

After Kaiser's field goal late in the third period put the North ahead 23-13, Christy, who scored earlier on a 62-yard run from scrimmage, flashed down the sideline with a punt 52 yards for another touchdown.

Then, with about two minutes left, he scooted 47 yards to the North 33 with another punt. After an exchange of fumbles, he snared a 23-yard pass from Arkansas' George Walker at the 2. Powerful Jimmy Taylor, Louisiana State fullback, could get only one yard and the final whistle blew before the South could run another play.

Utah Star Eyed In Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The smallest man on the West roster looms large in the plans for an aerial attack against the favored East in Saturday's Shrine game. He's Stu Vaughan of the University of Utah, the nation's leading collegiate pass receiver last season although he stands just 5-9 and weighs 165.

Utah's coach Cactus Jack Curcio is the head man for the West and you can bet Vaughan will be tabbed as one of the potential receivers. During the season Vaughan caught 53 for 756 yards and five touchdowns.

Area Cage Squads in Holiday Tournament Action Tomorrow

Friday night basketball will feature Ashville at the Nelsonville Christmas tournament, Amanda at Lancaster St. Mary's and a holiday carnival involving Kingston, Clarksburg, Centralia and Unioto at Kingston.

Delong Holds Scoring Lead

Centralia's Shaw
Remains in Second

Amanda's Neil Delong (19.8), reigns for the second week as the leading area independent scorer. Delong dunked 18 points in Amanda's loss to upset-minded Rushville to drop four tenths of a point but was still able to retain his lead.

Centralia's Bobby Shaw (18.8), held second place for the second straight week. Shaw has had two poor nights of scoring in his last two outings with six and 11 points. Before that, Shaw maintained a 22-point average.

Shaw will have a chance to attain revenge for his six-point night if Centralia meets Unioto in the Kingston Holiday Tournament finals Saturday night. Unioto, with its height advantage, stopped little 5-6 Bobby from taking his deadly set-shots two weeks ago when they defeated the Bulldogs by two points, 55-53.

Ronnie Hill, Stoutsville, replaced teammate Ray Reinheld in third place with a 17.7 average and was one of two who increased his average last week. Hill had a good night against Millersport helping his team to an easy victory over a rebuilding young team.

Reinheld, the other of Stoutsville's scoring duo, makes a tough combination to stop under the bucket for any opponent. Ray is the rebounder while Hill is the corner shot. Reinheld carries a 16.1 average.

CENTRALIA'S Floyd Myers rounds out the top five with a 16-point average, moving from seventh to fifth place, the only other member of the top 10 to increase his average. Myers was the Bulldog mainstay in Centralia's win over Frankfort as Bobby Shaw was again experiencing a bad night.

Although Laurelville didn't place a man in the top five, the squad have four men in the second five, showing marked balance in their attack. The team has a 9 and 1 record and is undefeated in league play. Laurelville is the only area squad that has scored over 100 points this year.

Centralia and Stoutsville dominated the first five, each placing two men. Amanda placed one and Kingston, having a bout with the flu bug, is without a representative this week.

Mississippi Preps For Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mississippi and Texas began final preparation today for their Sugar Bowl football date on New Year's Day. Mississippi, which rules a two-point favorite in a third effort to take its first Sugar Bowl title, opened its drills at its home base, while Texas will wind up its practices at Biloxi, on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Both Coach Darrell Royal of Texas and Johnny Vaught of Mississippi planned to avoid much heavy work in their final drills.

Ashville will meet Buchtel-York of Athens County at 8 p. m. The second game of the evening is between Nelsonville and Carbon Hill.

Buchtel-York, winners of nine straight this year, probably will furnish some rugged competition for Russ Gregg's cagers. The Athens County quintet has four of five starters back from last year's squad which finished high in the southern district.

Winners of Friday night's games meet Saturday night at 8 p. m. for the tournament championship. The losers will battle it out at 7 p. m. for consolation honors.

First night of the Kingston Carnival cards Unioto vs Kingston and Centralia vs Clarksburg. Saturday night's action will pit the winners against each other and a consolation tilt between the losers.

Browns Prep On Defense For Detroit

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul E. Brown concentrates his Cleveland Browns' practice today on defense. And never in 10 championship playoffs over the last 11 years have the Browns depended more on defense than they are depending on it for Sunday's game in Detroit.

In previous ascents to championship playoff games, the Browns averaged about four touchdowns a game. This year, the Browns won their conference title with an average of 15 points a game, if you take away the 77 points Lou Groza scored with his trusty toe.

In spite of the somewhat lowered offensive potential, the Browns still are slight favorites among bettors here to cop their fourth NFL championship since they entered the league in 1950.

In regular season play Cleveland won nine games, lost two and tied one. Detroit was 8-4, then beat San Francisco in a playoff for the Western Division crown.

Detroit and Cleveland split a pair of pre-season games, the Lions winning 20-10 in Detroit and the Browns 23-7 in Cleveland.

What's left of Briggs Stadium's seats and 4,000 standing room tickets will go on sale Friday.

Bucks Return To Scrimmage

Christmas Is Past,
All Eyes on Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—It was back to the practice grind today for Ohio State and Oregon, with their climactic Rose Bowl football clash less than a week away.

Christmas thoughts were shoved aside as both teams donned their cleats and resumed workouts for the New Years Day classic.

Although both teams were far from home, and spent Christmas under a blazing sun which sent temperatures soaring into the high 70s, the holiday was memorable. Santa Claus remembered everyone.

The Bucks, basking in the role of 19-point favorites over the Pacific Coast co-champions, had their big yuletide party Christmas Eve. Ernie Godfrey, Ohio's veteran freshman mentor who has been on the staff since 1929, played St. Nick and passed out 34 presents to each player.

The Webfoots, awed not in the least by the underdog tag pinned on them by the odds-fellows, waited until Christmas afternoon for their gift exchange, then joined the Bucks for a Rose Bowl committee party Wednesday night.

No Christmas practices were held.

With the exception of Ohio State's Don Clark and Jerry Ballinger, both left halfbacks, the cripples on both squads were rounding into shape Clark, leading ground-gainer for the Big Ten champs, probably will miss the big game because of a late-season groin injury, and Ballinger is

Franklin Heights Next Tiger Foe

Circleville's cage Tigers will be seeking their fifth win in seven weeks Saturday night at Franklin Heights.

It will mark the first cage action in eight days for the Tigers who have been idle since last Friday's Greenfield game. However, the locals are keeping in trim with practice sessions this week.

The next home game for Coach Dick Boyd's unit is scheduled January 3 when Hillsboro comes here for a South Central Ohio League battle. The following Friday the Tigers entertain the Hurricanes of Wilmington in another loop struggle.

Getting off to a good start this season the Tigers posted wins over Athens and Aquinas, then dropped successive games to Washington C. H. and Chillicothe, but came back to record triumphs over Groveport and Greenfield.

CIRCLEVILLE's brightest light to date has been the scoring ability of forward Bill Johnson who has been hitting high up in double figures. His best night was at Greenfield where he hit for 35 points.

Underdogs Winning In Pro Cage Loop

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Assn. underdogs are stirring around a bit with a belated Christmas present for their long suffering fans.

The Minneapolis Lakers, the doormats of the league so far this year, knocked off the Detroit Pistons 106-104 for their seventh win in 28 starts, while the Philadelphia Warriors beat the Boston Celtics for the first time this year 115-105.

In the other scheduled game the Syracuse Nats defeated the New York Knicks, 134-130 in overtime at Syracuse.

Australian Netters Trip Yankees Again

Mackay, Seixas Lose
Opening Matches in
Singles Division

MELBOURNE (AP)—Malcolm Anderson and Ashley Cooper, Australia's latest pair of court killers, won the opening singles matches in the Davis Cup Challenge Round today and put the American forces' backs squarely against the wall.

Anderson took a long, tense struggle from Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 7-9, 6-3, while Cooper panted to another five-set triumph over veteran Vic Seixas, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, while a capacity crowd of more than 20,000—said to be one of the largest ever to witness a tennis match—squirmed at the uncertainty of the matches.

The Aussies, latest in a long production line of tennis twins that included the likes of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor and Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, had their troubles with the U.S. pair.

In fact, hardly a spectator budged from his seat on this dank, gloomy day until the final stroke was smashed.

Now the Aussies have merely to win either Friday's doubles or one of Saturday's singles to keep possession of the cup they have won for the last two years.

The order of the final singles will be the reverse of today's matches. U.S. Captain Billy Talbert said he still was undecided over the makeup of his doubles team for Friday. Ordinarily it would be Seixas and Gardner Mulloy. But after Seixas' long match against Cooper, Talbert may decide to use Mackay, who endeared himself with the Australian fans as a result of his fine match against Anderson.

At the end, the spectators, who regard the Americans almost as fondly as their own, were wildly cheering the 22-year-old Mackay, a virtual unknown here.

for Saturday's intersectional grid-iron game.

Coaches put the North and South squads through the hardest practice session of the weeklong pre-game drills despite a drizzling rain which fell most of Wednesday afternoon.

More hard work was on the schedule for today.

Rice, meanwhile, was in Abilene, Tex., where the Owls had a successful training period before they played in the 1954 Cotton Bowl. Coach Jess Neely got his boys out of Houston because a big basketball tournament is going on there, with all the Southwest Conference teams competing.

Football fever started rising as Navy, making its first appearance in Dallas' post-season classic, hove into sight.

Franklin Heights Next Tiger Foe

Circleville's cage Tigers will be seeking their fifth win in seven starts Saturday night at Franklin Heights.

It will mark the first cage action in eight days for the Tigers who have been idle since last Friday's Greenfield game. However, the locals are keeping in trim with practice sessions this week.

The next home game for Coach Dick Boyd's unit is scheduled January 3 when Hillsboro comes here for a South Central Ohio League battle. The following Friday the Tigers entertain the Hurricanes of Wilmington in another loop struggle.

Getting off to a good start this season the Tigers posted wins over Athens and Aquinas, then dropped successive games to Washington C. H. and Chillicothe, but came back to record triumphs over Groveport and Greenfield.

CIRCLEVILLE'S brightest light to date has been the scoring ability of forward Bill Johnson who has been hitting high up in double figures. His best night was at Greenfield where he hit for 35 points.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son, Albert John Sabine, who died Dec. 26, 1957. You left us oh, so quickly. Twas such a sudden blow. And what it meant to lose you. No one will ever know. The world may change from year to year. And friends from day to day. But the memory of your loving smile. Will never fade away. Sadly missed by Mother, Father.

When Brown couldn't rebuild with rookies, he rebuilt with recent acquisitions. After drafting last for years, he got some good material from last year's draft choices.

Jim Brown, the rookie fullback from Syracuse, won first place in the league this year for ground gaining.

O'Connell, in his first full year, had the league's best average gain at passing, and rookie Milt Plum developed into such a sharp passer and runner at the end of the season that the coach doesn't worry who starts at quarterback.

Rookie Fred Robinson and sophomore Jim Ray Smith became the guard-messengers, and center Art Hunter, who had one year's experience at Green Bay, took over at offensive center.

Leahy says his doctor will have to say so first.

President M. T. Harrington of Texas A&M released a statement

Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant in his final game before moving to his alma mater, Alabama.

Opinion here is divided over whether the Aggies will be eager to give Bryant a royal sendoff with a bowl victory or whether they will be lackadaisical through that the former Notre Dame coach had agreed to a three-year contract at $16,000 a year ($1,000 more than was paid Paul Bryant who resigned to go to Alabama) plus rent-free use of a college-owned residence. He said formal signing was expected by the end of the week, that Leahy was in a hospital at his home in Michigan City, a feeling he let them down by switching coaching jobs.

Texas A&M is a senior team that twice ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press poll before losing the final games 7-6 to Rice and 9-7 to Texas. In the final poll A&M

However, at the hospital Leahy said, “I told them it was 99 per cent definite” but that he was going to Chicago to see Dr. Cliff Barborka, who treated him for a stomach ailment three years ago. That ailment had caused him to retire from coaching in 1953 after compiling a fabulous record as head man at Notre Dame.

Leahy said he thought a final agreement wasn't supposed to be reached until Saturday.

“I wouldn't want to go to them in poor health,” Leahy said. “It wouldn't be right for them or for Frank Leahy.”

Packaged Foods Use To Increase

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
County Home Economics Agent

Someone has said, "Blessed are they who were not satisfied to let well enough alone. All the progress the world has made, we owe to them."

Before these "blessed ones" got in gear on the progressive road, the following story would quickly have been placed in the "fairy" category.

Listen my people and you shall hear—about a mother and father and their children dear:—

Mother works in a fabric and dress shop in an ultra-modern shopping center where she arranges and sells Acrilan, Arnel, Bemberg, Vicara, Indian Head and such—by the yard or as a garment. On her way home from work in her sport type car in which she has nothing to do but just drive, she stops at a super-market.

The following items are electronically packaged after she pushes the selected numbers: Frozen Swedish meat balls and broccoli, each in sealed bags of "Mylar" and polyethylene; package of french fried potatoes—also frozen; brown and serve rolls; angel cake mix with foil baking pan in the pack; ready-to-use frosting in a squeezeable pastry tube with changeable nozzles for decorating the cake; jar of instant coffee; and a box of instant milk.

UPON ARRIVING home at 6 p. m. this "working woman" quickly pops the "n-the-bag" meat balls and broccoli in water which had been pre-set to be boiling in the deep-well of the range. During the 12 required boiling minutes, Mother and Mary proceed in this sequence: turn on electronic oven; mix cake and put in oven; take clean and waiting dishes from the electric dishwasher to set the table; put instant coffee and milk in the cups and glasses; take cake from oven; put French fries in oven to heat and rolls to brown.

Just as they hear father's plane come up on the landing lane and Junior's helicopter land on the hook, Mary cuts open the Mylar bags and pours the steaming food on the plates while Mother with one hand deftly maneuvers the frosting tube and with the other, pours hot and cold water over the beverage powder. As the men enter, ter, Mary transports rolls and potatoes from oven to table.

While the family partakes of nutrition quickly prepared, Father explains the TV color technique he is helping design and Junior explains the tin cans with zippers his plant is perfecting to eliminate can openers and winding keys—both of which become lost and unmanageable.

As the conversation proceeds, soft strains from the hi-fi permeate the happy and modern atmosphere.

When the meal is finished, Mary scrapes the small amount of uneaten food particles from the plates into the electric disposal built into the sink, and puts the soiled dishes in the electric dishwasher.

At the same time, Mother brings a load of soiled clothes (mostly the non-iron kind) which she puts into the electric washer-dryer combination adjacent to the dishwasher. Mother and Mary press the control buttons simultaneously and go to the TV room where father and junior announce that John Jones just won an ultra-super cat for life!

And so they lived luxuriously ever after—preparing and serving delicious meals with little more effort than it takes to push a button and flip open a package.

EVEN THOUGH food companies may not produce the cars with zippers, they seem to agree that there will continue to be more and more foods with built-in time and work saving features—plus help for homemakers in serving these foods in different "original" ways.

The four main ways of preserving food have stood the test of time and will undoubtedly continue to be used, although with improvements.

The supermarket of the future will go all out to please Mrs. and Mr. Consumer. For a nation now on wheels and increasingly on wings, it has been speculated that there may even be rooftop pick-up stations for customers in helicopters.

And, if you want to keep on dreaming, make visions of a market where moving and revolving shelves bring the food to "Lazy Susan"—and Sam; where by pressing a button and putting

Income Tax Deadline for Farm, Feb. 15

Farmers who close their business year December 31, and most of them do, have until Feb. 15, 1958, to pay their income tax, reminds George Hamrick, Pickaway County Agricultural Agent.

Those farmers who don't close their business year December 31 may file a return and pay their tax before the 15th day of the second month after the close of their business year.

A person is classified as a farmer if at least two-thirds of his gross income is from farming.

There are no major changes in the income tax law over last year. Farmers must pay self-employment tax, social security, if their net earnings for the year were more than $400. They may use an optional method of computing net earnings if their gross income from farming was no more than $1,800. They may treat two-thirds of such gross income as their net earnings from farm self-employment.

Farmers whose gross income from farming was more than $1,800 may treat $1,200 as net earnings.

Morris Church Incorporates

Secretary of State, Ted W. Brown, today issued a not for profit corporation charter today to the ings, providing their actual net earning was less than $1,200.

Farmers may secure their "Income Tax Guide Bulletin" by either phoning or personally making a request at the County Extension Office, in the basement of the Post Office.

Packaged Foods Use To Increase

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
County Home Economics Agent

Someone has said, "Blessed are they who were not satisfied to let well enough alone. All the progress the world has made, we owe to them."

Before these "blessed ones" got in gear on the progressive road, the following story would quickly have been placed in the "fairy" category.

Listen my people and you shall hear—about a mother and father and their children dear:—

Mother works in a fabric and dress shop in an ultra-modern shopping center where she arranges and sells Acrilan, Arnel, Bemberg, Vicara, Indian Head and such—by the yard or as a garment. On her way home from work in her sport type car in which she has nothing to do but just drive, she stops at a super-market.

The following items are electronically packaged after she pushes the selected numbers: Frozen Swedish meat balls and broccoli, each in sealed bags of "Mylar" and polyethylene; package of frozen fried potatoes—also frozen; brown and serve rolls; angel cake mix with foil baking pan in the pack; ready-to-use frosting in a squeezable pastry tube with changeable nozzles for decorating the cake; jar of instant coffee; and a box of instant milk.

UPON ARRIVING home at 6 p. m. this "working woman" quickly pops the "in-the-bag" meat balls and broccoli in water which had been pre-set to be boiling in the deep-well of the range. During the 12 required boiling minutes, Mother and Mary proceed in this sequence: turn on electronic oven; mix cake and put in oven; take clean and waiting dishes from the electric dishwasher to set the table; put instant coffee and milk in the cups and glasses; take cake from oven; put French fries in oven to heat and rolls to brown.

Just as they hear father's plane come up on the landing lane and Junior's helicopter land on the hook, Mary cuts open the Mylar bags and pours the steaming food on the plates while Mother with one hand deftly maneuvers the frosting tube and with the other, pours hot and cold water over the beverage powder. As the men enter, Mary transports rolls and potatoes from oven to table.

While the family partakes of nutrition quickly prepared, Father explains the TV color technique he is helping design and Junior explains the tin cans with zippers his plant is perfecting to eliminate can openers and winding keys—both of which become lost and unmanageable.

As the conversation proceeds, soft strains from the hi-fi permeate the happy and modern atmosphere.

When the meal is finished, Mary scrapes the small amount of uneaten food particles from the plates into the electric disposal built into the sink, and puts the soiled dishes in the electric dishwasher.

At the same time, Mother brings a load of soiled clothes (mostly the non-iron kind) which she puts into the electric washer-dryer combination adjacent to the dishwasher. Mother and Mary press the control buttons simultaneously and go to the TV room where father and junior announce that John Jones just won an ultra-super cat for life!

And so they lived luxuriously ever after—preparing and serving delicious meals with little more effort than it takes to push a button and flip open a package.

EVEN THOUGH food companies may not produce the cars with zippers, they seem to agree that there will continue to be more and more foods with built-in time and work saving features — plus help for homemakers in serving these foods in different "original" ways. The four main ways of preserving food have stood the test of time and will undoubtedly continue to be used, although with improvements.

The supermarket of the future will go all out to please Mrs. and Mr. Consumer. For a nation now on wheels and increasingly on wings, it has been speculated that there may even be rooftop pick-up stations for customers in helicopters.

And, if you want to keep on dreaming, make visions of a market where moving and revolving shelves bring the food to "Lazy Susan"—and Sam; where by pressing a button and putting

In spite of all the super-duper methods, authorities believe that men and women who enjoy cooking will continue to be creative whether they use a recipe or add a personal touch to a mix. What will the new year bring?

Tales out of School

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Don't tell the kids, but teachers can be troublesome when abroad.

"They get so interested in what they are seeing that they straggle behind and are liable to get lost," says Dr. Wesley Childers, of Albany State College for Teachers.

The professor should know. He has escorted teachers to Europe seven times, usually in groups of about 20.

Drunk on Pepper?

FRONTON, Ohio (AP)—No pepper is furnished with meals at City Jail. Food is seasoned before serving because it was found some inmates were dumping large quantities of pepper in water and drinking it as a kind of semi-intoxicating drink.

Income Tax Deadline for Farm, Feb. 15

Farmers who close their business year December 31, and most of them do, have until Feb. 15, 1958, to pay their income tax, reminds George Hamrick, Pickaway County Agricultural Agent.

Those farmers who don't close their business year December 31 may file a return and pay their tax before the 15th day of the second month after the close of their business year.

A person is classified as a farmer if at least two-thirds of his gross income is from farming.

There are no major changes in the income tax law over last year. Farmers must pay self-employment tax, social security, if their net earnings for the year were more than $400. They may use an optional method of computing net earnings if their gross income from farming was no more than $1,800. They may treat two-thirds of such gross income as their net earnings from farm self-employment.

Farmers whose gross income from farming was more than $1,800 may treat $1,200 as net earn-
